Detailed Action

The amendment file don 1-20-2006 has been entered.

Claims Rejection - 35 U.S.C. 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- 2. Claims 1, 4-8 and 11-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cunningham (U.S. Patent No. 4,811,486).

Cunningham discloses a folding knife comprising a handle (3,4); a blade (2) pivotally connected to the handle (3,4); a locking mechanism (13) pivotally connected to the handle (3,4) for locking the blade (2) in a closed position (see Fig.4); the locking mechanism (13) located near a base portion of the blade (2); the locking mechanism (13) including a male portion (14) for mating with a blade female portion (2a); a protrusion (19) extending from the handle (3,4) for mating with a recess (15) of the locking mechanism (13); the locking mechanism (13) further including a tab (i.e. the portion that is visible through notches 3a,4a when the knife is assembled as shown in Figs.1 and 2); and a protrusion of a blade (i.e. the portion of the blade that is protruded out of the handle as shown in Fig.4) configured to displace the locking mechanism (13) as claimed.

3. Claims 1-4, 9-12 and 14-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Frazer (U.S. Patent Publication No. 2003/0070299).

Frazer discloses a folding knife comprising a handle (14), a blade (12), a locking mechanism (52) having a male portion for engaging with a female portion (66, see Fig.5), a pivot pin (54), and a protrusion (32) as claimed.

Remarks

Applicants' arguments filed 1-20-2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants argue, at pages 11-17 of the amendment, the fundamental feature of the present invention is that the knife includes an independent locking mechanism for locking the blade into a closed position. Cunningham does not teach a safety locking mechanism which is independent of the blade opening mechanism. Frazer's locking mechanism serves the dual purpose of locking the blade in both the open and closed positions. Applicants do not believe both Cunningham and Frazer references teach an independent locking mechanism which locks the blade into a closed position and maintains the blade in the closed position until the lock is manually disengaged by the user before attempting to open the knife.

In response to applicant's argument that the Cunningham fails to show certain features of applicants' invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicants rely (i.e. an independent locking mechanism which locks the blade into a closed position and maintains the blade in the closed position until the lock is manually disengaged by the user before attempting to open the knife) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).
